EVICTIONS INCREASING.

THE RESISTANCE STRONGER THAN EVER.

Paris, 5th—The general meeting of shareholders of the French Panama Canal Company met to-day and resolved to dissolve the old Company, and to liquidate the actual one.

London, 4th—Agrarian disturbances are of daily occurrence in Ireland.

The number of evictions is growing larger, and the resistance of the people is becoming daily more pronounced.

MORE PAY FOR POOR EMPEROR WILLIAM

London, 5th—The Standard correspondent writes from Berlin that, in spite of the anxiety prevailing among Americans, nobody in the German capital has the slightest apprehension that the Samoa incident will lead to war between both nations.

It is understood that Germany will make friendly overtures which will be accepted by the U. States.

It is even officially acknowledged now that the Germans exceeded their instructions and misinterpreted them completely.

Such statements from semi-official organs show that, in view of the high pitch of American indignation, a retreat from the former menacing policy in Samoa is imminent.

Zanzibar, 5th—Mr. Mackay, missionary in Usatro, writes under date 26th November that there is no reliable news forthcoming about Stanley and Emin Bey.

In Uganda a fresh revolution had broken out, resulting in the dethronement of King Kiwiwa for having killed the leading instigators of the expulsion of the missionaries. He has been succeeded by his younger brother.

Vienna, 5th—An immense number of people are awaiting their turn to cast a last look on the remains of Prince Rudolph. Four infantry regiments and a squadron of cavalry keep order in the crowd.

St. Louis, 5th—A brewery took fire yesterday morning, followed by an explosion that blew up the house. Loss $200,000.

London, 5th—In Gwedore, Donegal, the Police Inspector was killed whilst endeavouring to arrest Father Macffaden, Martin, at the head of the police force, surrounded the chapel where Father Macffaden was officiating; the minute the reverend gentleman appeared at the chapel door the agents seized him. The people interposed, and he managed to evade. When approaching his house, the police inspector overtook him, caught him by the coat, but was killed by a stone that fractured his skull before he could secure him. Father Macffaden, however, was subsequently arrested.

Vienna, 4th—The late Crown Prince went to Meyerling on Monday. On Tuesday he went out to shoot, but complained of headache, returned home and went to bed, although he was expected at an Imperial dinner at the Hofburg that night. Next morning he awoke very early, wrote several letters, and ordered breakfast at 7½ o'clock. When the servant brought it he found the Prince dead in bed. Count Hoyos and Prince Philip of Coburg rushed into the room. The latter was almost mad from grief. The Count went off at once to Vienna to tell the Emperor, who then broke the news to the Empress and shut himself up till 3 o'clock in his study.

The corpse was brought to Vienna today. An immense silent crowd was at the station but dispersed at the request of the police. The body was taken to the Palace in a hearse drawn by six horses, and was laid in the dead Prince's apartments.

All the Vienna papers are in mourning.

The New York Evening Sun has a sensational cablegram from Berlin to the effect that the Prince was shot in a duel by Count Clam Gallus, who discovered an intrigue between his wife and the Prince. Dr. Werdenhofer, who made the post-mortem examination, says, however, there is no doubt about the suicide. Besides, a discharged revolver was found lying on the bed. The Prince had been very nervous and complaining of headaches for some time, and had a bad fall from his horse last autumn.

Berlin, 4th—Emperor Francis Joseph has begged Emperor William to abandon his intention of attending the Crown Prince's funeral in person.

Emperor William's civil list has been raised to 3½ million marks by the Prussian Chamber.

Bismarck has ordered that martial law in Samoa shall not apply to foreigners.

Washington, 3rd—Minister Bayard has expressed approval of the step taken by the Australian Federal Council in petitioning the Crown against recent events in Samoa, which are contrary to existing treaties, threaten the independence of the island, and are a menace to Australia.

MONTEVIDEO.

PANIC ON THE BOLSA.

"DEGRINGOLADE" IN OBRAS PUBLICAS.

MILLIONS NEEDED TO TIDE OVER THE SITUATION.

(From our special Correspondent.)

Montevideo, 5th—

31 Shares of the Obras Publicas Company fell away headlong to-day in the midst of a complete panic to 36½. Blue ruin stares operators in the face, and to make matters far worse the most absurd and alarming "canards" are set flying to increase the proportions of the panic.

There is something radically wrong and the market has smelt a rat. All the National Bank men are out of the stock. They dropped the stock weeks ago, and the shares, having no legs to stand on, are toppling over at a fearful pace. I can state on good authority that the National Bank is no longer connected in any way with the "Obras Publicas" Company.

National Bank shares, meantime, have fallen in sympathy to 144, in the midst of the general fright and scramble.

Manager Reuss, of the "Obras Publicas" Company has gone up to Buenos Ayres; to tell the truth there is no money in this market, and it is altogether too small for such immense speculative concerns of the proportions of the "Obras Publicas."

H. M. S. Ruby will not go up to Buenos Ayres. She will be relieved by H. M. S. Cleopatra, Captain Musgrave, expected here shortly. We shall miss Captain Kennedy of the Ruby and his gallant officers.

Later— 9.35 p.m.

The Bolsa panic continues.

This evening's telegrams from Reus, announcing his negotiations in a fair way of settlement and his immediate return to the speculative battle-field produced no effect whatever.

The official sales to-day amounted to immense sums. The sensation of the hour is that it has been officially proved that shares to the amount of four million one hundred thousand dollars have been issued beyond the amount fixed in the charter.

National Bank Shares continue gloomy

The market is in a very bad situation. The bears were desperate in their efforts to overthrow the market in National Bank Shares; but they met with very heavy buyers, and as the situation of the Bank is first-class, a steady and strong reaction is expected soon. The Shares are also on the eve of a three-dollar dividend. The Bonk is doing a roaring business.

THE YANKEES OF SOUTH AMERICA.

The London Times has dubbed Argentines as the Yankees of South America, and the name will stick to them. It now remains to be seen if Argentines will acknowledge this as a compliment, as it is intended by the great London organ, or resent the liberty taken by a newspaper to dub them with the generic features of any other nationality but their own. Only the other day, the Vice-President of the Republic, whilst inaugurating the prosecution of the port works, started the new theory that Yankee genius or Yankeeism was not the patrimony of any single race or nation; instinctively evolved out of his inner consciousness, he felt that he and his countrymen were the Yankees of the South, yet he cared not to don the American feather without explaining away that he thereby did not acknowledge any innate superiority of the United States. He meant that Argentines are Yankees through selection of species, not because the former imitated the States in their progress, or were bound to look to the States for an appellation that the simple name of Argentine would not convey to the world at large. Such puerile susceptibilities, however, pardonable in collectivities as well as in individuals, can be overlooked, as the immense compliment paid to Argentines covers all the minor slights that may be picked out in analysis.

There are now in South America "the English" or "Chilians," and the "Yankees" or "Argentines." To them is left the noble task of redeeming the reputation of poor South America and of showing the world, as they both do in their respective spheres, that in the Spanish strain of blood on the Western slope of the Andes there is order, organization, progress, and in the so-called selection of species on the Eastern slope, the mingling of Spanish, Italian, and French elements, there is a spirit of enterprise and go-aheadism that can compare favorably with the indomitable characteristics of the North American.

The English and the Yankees are proverbial for their powers of absorption; the prototypes of Chilians and Argentines have proved their powers in this line and are still displaying them to a world that threatens to become small for them. In time we shall see the same powers in Argentines, and Chilians spreading over this continent and all the minor satellites gravitating towards them till finally welded into the same mass. Such an eventuality is not distant, and it requires no prophetic soul to predict the future in this regard. If the English and Yankees of South America join, such a desideratum might be witnessed this generation; but it is well not to disturb sleeping dogs, and let well alone. Meantime, it is satisfactory to read in the Retrospect of Business in 1888 in the Times, the following well-timed remarks on the Argentine republic:—

India and the Colonies have availed themselves of their credit with perhaps rather less than their usual freedom, but there has been a very considerable issue of loans by foreign States and cities, particularly those of the Argentine Republic. To this great country and, in a lesser degree, to South America generally the eyes of many people have been turning of late in the hope of finding more remunerative investments for their money than can be obtained in other quarters. On the whole, we do not think that their expectation is wrong, though, as usual in such cases, the disposition of the public to lend has been temporalily abused, Argentine provincial and municipal loans and companies having been issued in dangerous profusion during the past year. It is not reasonable to blame the Argentine people in this matter so much as their chief financial advisers in Europe, Messrs Baring Brothers. We shall not join in the chorus of indiscriminate and not too scrupulous attack which this great house has lately drawn on itself in the City, but shall merely say that, in this matter of Argentine issues, Messrs Baring have not acted with as much prudence and care as their position and the trust reposed in them by the public demanded, and that we hope they will not commit similar indiscretions again. We do not believe, however, that any harm has been done. The Argentine Republic—to use the clumsy expression which is only beginning to be displaced by the simpler name Argentina—is possessed of very great resources, which have still to a large extent to be developed. Its inhabitants deserve much of what has been said in their praise by enthusiasts. The "Yankees of South America" have shown themselves to be rather above the average of peoples in industry, enterprise, and intelligence, besides displaying a respectable degree of capacity for governing themselves. Troubles, political and other, they have had, and will doubtless continue to have, especially if unwise friends offer to lend thom money too rapidly. We do not pretend to lay down a hard and fast line, but every one now agrees that far too much was lent them during 1888, and the ignominious failure of the Buenos Ayres Waterworks and Drainage issue was a salutary check on a process which was becoming a source of danger. It may be as well to remind our readers that Messrs Baring Brothers undertook, in February last, the agency of the Republic of Uruguay. Their doing so caused considerable surprise at the time, as Uruguay cannot be said to occupy nearly as good a position as Argentina. The people are not so good, to begin with; and, though the country is in many respects admirable, it has so far been wretchedly dealt with, railways and even roads being few and, as a rule, bad. There has hitherto been too much politics and too little business in Uruguay, but of late the country has been comparatively tranquil, and, what is of even more importance as a sign of progress, it has kept its engagements to its creditors. In becoming sponsors for such a State in the London Money Market, Messrs Baring have undertaken a considerable responsibility. It is in their power to do much to make or mar the future of Uruguay. By giving their advice and aid to well-considered projects for the development of the country they may greatly benefit Uruguay, as well as British investors and themselves; but, if they carelessly encourage the natural tendency of a young State to borrow too much, they will do all concerned grave injury.

IMMIGRATION FIGURES.

The figures just published by the Immigration Office shew a decided spurt in our immigration returns, as compared with last year. The total arrivals in January amounted to 25,420, including 22,100 immigrants. The figures for January of last year were 15,281, including 14,041 immigrants. There has, therefore, been an increase of over 10 thousand. In the course of January 1888, the number of ocean-going steamers that entered the port was 42. Last month 78 entered. Of these, 40 carried the British flag; 13 the French, 11 the German, 9 the Italian, 2 the Belgian, 2 the Spanish and 1 the Brazilian. Of the immigrants 16,565 were landed last month on the Catalinas Mole; 13,647 entered the Immigrants' Home, where they are lodged and boarded at the expense of the State, for three days. Of course, the proportion of Italians is very high; the Ausonian element contributes the bulk of our immigration. The proportion last month was 42.56 per cent. Next come the Spaniards 42.56 per cent. Next come the Spaniards the French, 17.80 per cent, and the other nationalities follow in a descending scale. The "Comisaria" placed 9,022 immigrants as follows:—

	Immigrants
City	161
Prov. of B. Ayres	3,414
Entre Rios	632
Corrientes	514
Santa Fé	2,230
Cordoba	1,186
Tucuman	40
S'tiago del Estro	43
Salta	165
Jujuy	12
Catamarca	100
Rioja	11
San Luis	31
Mendoza	370
San Juan	78
Chaco	18
Formosa	16

The bulk was consequently absorbed by Buenos Ayres and Santa Fé. It will be observed that only 9000 were placed by the Comisaria. Where the rest went is a mystery. No one can tell. The Italian or the Spaniard is barely 5 minutes ashore when he finds immediate work. This happy facility for finding work and friends is a striking feature in the Italian and Spaniard. It is altogether absent in our own countrymen, who, despite recommendations and other assistance are unable to find immediate employment. A strange language and stranger surroundings constitute, no doubt, a disadvantage for the Britisher; but it is astonishing to see with what ease the same difficulties are overcome by the Italian, and how quickly he finds himself at home with a pick-axe, a piece of bread and an onion. Last month's tide of immigration is now scattered over the country, from Buenos Ayres to Formosa, and from the Atlantic to the foot of the Andes. The figures for this month will probably not be so high, owing the shortness of the month; but we cannot doubt they will outstrip the returns for the same month last year. Soon one thousand strong and sturdy immigrants will land every 24 hours on our shores.

MEMS OF WICKLOW.

XXVI.

The "Glen of the Downs," which is one of the beauties of Wicklow, is about five miles from Bray. The first object of interest on the route is Lord Meath's estate, Kilrudderry, which we described in a previous letter. The road runs through a thickly wooded country lined with magnificent residences, belonging, as the carman says, to the nobility of Dublin. At a turn in the road we come on the Downs Mountain which raises its lofty head 1300 feet above the sea; and now we enter the glen, which is over a mile in length. By the side of the road is a rushing river, hidden amidst rocks and shrubs, and overshadowed by precipices, some of them from 500 to 600 feet. One side of the glen belongs to the Latouche family and the other to Lord Powerscourt. The Latouches, it seems, have been very unfortunate. One hundred years ago they had a great bank, and the daughter of the banker was said to be the handsomest woman in all Europe; but the bank smashed and the family came down. We drove on to a little country village on the sea, called Delgany, where we took the train and went on to the town of Wicklow, which is one of the oldest towns in Ireland, built by the Danes, and a place of importance before William the Conqueror was born. Strongbow built a castle on a rocky projection overhanging the sea, and the ruins of the old castle may still be seen. The old abbey in the centre of the town is occupied by Canon Dillon, the parish priest, and is, beyond question, the best residence in the town. There are good flour mills belonging to Mr. Kent, who is a large buyer of River Plate maize. There is also a good hotel, but we know nothing of the charges, as we stayed with our cousin, who is the principal attorney of the place. Next day we all started on outside cars for the Devil's Glen, which is one of the most attractive spots. We drove through a beautiful avenue called Tighe's avenue, and learned from the carman that the son of the owner is now an estanciero in Buenos Aires. The country around is, indeed, most beautiful. We passed Newrath, where there is a famous hotel for picnic parties; and then the little town of Ashford, and entered the Devil's Glen right in front of the church at Nun's Cross. It was what is called a "soft" day, and our umbrellas hid from our view many of the beauties of the scenery. On the opposite side of the glen we saw a large square mansion in a beautiful park. This place belongs to some Lord who rents it during the summer months with carriage and horses, coachman, footman and 3 house servants for £100 per month, which seemed to us far cheaper than on the Flores Road. In the winter when no tourist could be expected to live in such a place, the landlord resides himself in the house. We drove along the glen, the rain coming down in torrents, and at last arrived at a little cottage in the wood which Mr. Tottenham, the owner of the glen, has built for the accommodation of picnic parties. And here we landed our hampers and got the wife of the cottager to boil the potatoes. Mr. Tottenham, the proprietor lives far off in the glen, and but for the rain we should have driven on to see him, as the name is not unknown to some of the old English-speaking residents of B. Ayres. Col. Tottenham, when he visited the Plate in 1864, played all sorts of pranks with the police, prima donnas, cafe owners, &c.; and in the old files of the Standard may be found their records. One evening he entered the Cafe de Paris, called the waiter and asked him to count how many persons were in the cafe. After some bother the servant complied and reported 210. Mr. T. then ordered 210 hot whisky punches to be served, and any one who refused the punch was to be handed his card with a small bullet on a white plate. Only one, a Gallego shoemaker of the Recoba, declined the punch. Tottenham called him out the next morning, but the police arrested both, and Tottenham apologized on condition that the Gallego drank thirteen tumblers of hot punch that night at the Cafe Colon. Glorious old times those, and even at the risk of having to drink the punch we should have visited the owner of the glen but for the rain. It rained in torrents all that evening, and we got back to Wicklow as drenched as if we had fallen into the Varzy river. Next morning we took the train and went to Rathdrum, which is the nearest station where all tourists breakfast and then push on. We noticed in the visitors' book that two Porteños had been there the day previous, and had written in Spanish great praise of the hotel, scenery &c. In these hotel books, all sorts of funny things are written, but we have not time to jot them down. We started after breakfast and drove through the beautiful valley of Glenmalure; we pulled up at a lonely inn, at Drumgoff, to give the horses a rest. The scenery about here is certainly very fine, and guides offered to take us to the top of Lugnaquilla, 3500 feet high, from whence we could see the Galtee mountains in Tipperary. Just about 2 miles from this inn we entered the Glendalough Valley, commonly called the Seven Churches; remains of that number of churches, with numerous other antiquities still exist scattered through the valley.

As we descended from our jaunting cars we were besieged by a lot of male and female guides from whom the only escape was to pay them 6 pence each to keep away. The women loaded my wife and daughter with samples of ore from the mines hard by, and seemed to live on the precarious donations of tourists. We should say that there were at least one hundred tourists in the valley on that day. An old man, dressed in knee-breeches and tail coat with brass buttons, was our guide. He showed us the spot where Queen Victoria when a very young woman, with Prince Albert sat and lunched, where in after years her son, the Prince of Wales, the lamented Crown Prince, afterwards Emperor, the Emperor of Brazil and others spent the day, and the bands of music played; but of far deeper interest were the ivy clad tower, ruins, churches, and St. Kevin's kitchen; St. Kevin's monastery, built by the Saint, was wrecked and burnt 600 years ago. The guide even showed us a large quadrangular paved space, where once stood the town; crumbling remains of walls and half buried tombs indicate the site of the Cathedral. The Lady chapel is in better preservation. The ruins of Trinity Church are close to the ruins of Laragh. In the centre of the ruins stands one of the finest old Round Towers in Ireland, 110 feet high and built of granite, the top was blown down in a storm in 1804, and the repairs look shockingly ugly. The most perfect of all the ruins is the Oratory, which our guide called St. Kevin's kitchen, the little belfry being mistaken for a chimney. Mrs. Bookey, who lives close by, removed the grand old cross to her demesne, where it can be seen The most interesting of all is the old abbey in the crypt of which the good St. Anthony was buried in 618; only the Western wall remains, with a large tree growing out of the masonry above the entrance, and the semi-circular arches of the window are so covered with moss and ivy that the stones are invisible—within. Trees have grown in the opening where the cross once stood, and old grave-stones and monuments to the O'Tooles, kings of Wicklow, mingle with the rubbish. There is one grand old Celtic cross standing which defies time. It is hewn out of one solid block of granite and stands over 11 feet high. Around it are many other but smaller granite Celtic crosses and broken tombs of bishops and abbots. Behind the tombs are two lakes, lying solemnly tranquil in the shadow of the sterile hills that encircle the valley. In the face of the precipice which rises above the upper lake is the cavity called St. Kevin's bed, with which is connected the legend of the Saint and the fair Kathleen immortalized by Moore. We rowed in a boat to a ledge in the cliff, and although we could see from below many ladies emerging from the Saint's bed, we refused to allow our wife and daughter to make the experiment. What struck us as most remarkable was an old church ruin high on the cliff and near St. Kevin's bed, as it seems impossible for people to have gone to Mass in such a break-neck spot; and yet for what other object could the church have been built up there? There is a capital hotel at the edge of the ruins where tourists who have time may well pass a week or so, as, beside the church ruins, there are close to the village of Annamoe, the ruins of King O'Toole's castle, also Castle Kevin, and many other places of great interest. The shades of evening were falling fast as we drove back to Rathdrum, where dinner awaited us. We spent a most agreeable day and arrived back at Wicklow about midnight. We advise all our River Plate tourists who visit Ireland to spend a few days at Glendalough. On our way back to Rathdrum we drove over a fine bridge: on the parapet is a slab which says: "This bridge was erected by Patrick Bookey. Pray for the repose of his soul." "Quien sabe" if not an ancestor of the late Mr. Bookey of Buenos Aires?

PARIS LETTER.

THE PANAMA ANGUISH.

THE SCRUTIN DE LISTE.

LULL IN FOREIGN QUESTION.

(From our own Correspondent)

Paris, Dec. 26th, 1888

The first anguish of Panama suffering has passed away, and the losses, or the victims, commence to view their unhappy situation more soberly and resignedly. The shareholders are prepared to make every sacrifice to save the Canal enterprise. They will forego the payment of interest out of—their own—capital, but they are not so resolved to lend fresh cash. Confidence is lost in the project, and M. de Lesseps' assertions are now received with the "cum grano salis." Neither officially nor officiously will France come to the assistance of the shipwrecked, so there will be no necessity for the United States of America to trot out the Monroe doctrine, nor for the European powers to protest against any Gallic occupation of the Isthmus of Panama.

Since the declaration of the suspension of payments by the Company, and the placing itself under the protection of the Bankruptcy court, no solution of the dead-lock has been seriously made. As for the suggestions, their name is legion. Capital and capitalists hold aloof. And why?

Because the true situation of the company is not known, and till a trustworthy, impartial, and independent financial and engineering diagnosis be made, and stated as plain as road to parish church no negotiations to rescue the water-logged enterprise can be undertaken. Even the United States, the only probable buyer that in the end may make an offer, as an out-put for her congested Treasury, will keep aloof till the French be compelled to let the affair drop from their hands, unless M. de Lesseps has some fairy wand in store, to bring back confidence and obtain money. In round numbers, the Company has sunk so far, 1500 million francs, being triple the total of the original estimate. The monthly cost of the works is authoritatively estimated at 80 million francs; that implies, 960 million francs per annum till the Canal be opened. And when the inauguration? In all, two or three years. That calculation is not difficult to tot up or to study.

To bring out a preference loan implies the next to ruin of the present shareholders. And what must be the amount of that loan? Here no guess-work can be accepted; no beliefs, nor assurances of Panamists, but of an inquiring commission, possessing a reputation like Cesar's wife. Even on their report the question will be asked, "from whence are the receipts to come, to meet the working expenses of the Canal, and then the dividends to pay the preference stock-holders?" The grain trade of the West Coast of America has ceased to be a sheet anchor, due to Indian and Australian competition. Chile and Peru would be weak reeds on which to lean. The light goods and passenger traffic will be snapped up by the Canadian and the United States Pacific lines. Plenty of coarse merchandise, where time of arrival is of no importance, will take the cheaper Cape Horn route, and Suez tariffs must tend to lower, as the Oriental shipments augment. The fact is, the Panama Canal dominates no remunerative feeding zone, and is not in a position to economically compete with Suez and trans-continental routes. Sentiment will never open the coffers of international money-lenders, and, save France, no country seems eager for the glory of piercing the formidable isthmus; an isthmus which has nothing in common with Suez save a wider neck of land separating two oceans, and bristling with greater natural difficulties. Another unfavorable rumour is that which accuses the Canal Company to be the prisoner of the great money-lending establishments here, which have exacted onerous interest and conditions, as well as having a mortgage on the unplaced scrip. These banks will listen to no "accommodation;" their advances must be repaid. "The tender mercies of the wicked are cruel." They can sell Panama stock at an immense sacrifice, but still save their advances. The whole out-look is bleak and blank.

The refusal of the deputies to crutch up the Panama enterprise is telling on the political situation. It is useless reminding shareholders, who are also electors, that the representatives could not provoke a collision with the United States, by making a state question of a private enterprise. The resentment against the deputies, or that Turk's head—Parliamentarism, is not the less keen, though not generally expressed. The warmth of political strife is for the moment confined to the Opportunists and the Radicals. M. Jules Ferry has delivered a programme electoral speech, a second edition of that pronounced by Senator Challemel-Lacour, wherein he lays all the faults of the reigning confusion and discontent at the door of the radicals, as led by Premier Floquet. M. Ferry advocates a policy of do-nothing; to let the constitution be; to neither mend it nor end it. At the same time he is prepared to march hand-in-hand with the radicals, provided they knuckle down to his views and his leadership.

The radicals decline the alliance or the concentration, and insist on carrying out the Gambetta Romans-Belleville charters, delay in the execution of which has brought the republic to its present critical position. It is in this Alpha and Omega mood and attitude, both republican parties will go to the urns at the next general elections. The gigantic unpopularity of M. Ferry still hangs like the nether mill-stone round the neck of that very able man. It is not to the cry of Vive Tonkin! that his friends can hope to captivate voters.

Much fencing and intriguing are taking place repecting the revision of the constitution, and the alteration in the electoral laws. The majority of republicans are now of opinion that the present plan of voting for the deputies en bloc, for each department, and known as the Scrutin de Liste, is unfavorable to republican interests. Gambetta believed this system was the safeguard of the present constitution. Nor is it intended to revert to the uninominal plan of one deputy per arrondissement, or electoral college, with the restriction that a candidate must not stand for two seats simultaneously. The latter clause is aimed at Boulanger. Jules Ferry's friends want the electoral reform carried before the revision, but M. Floquet insists on the latter having priority. Public opinion does not express itself in any marked manner for either unit, and appears settled down to allow matters to slide till the general elections and let the ballot urns dictate the future of France.

Before then the Boulangists intend to try a fall with the government and their adversaries, and if successful that will only be one annoyance more for the cabinet rather than a definite solution of the deeper problem of the future. M. Hude, one of the thirty-six deputies for Paris, and the department of the Seine, has just died at an awkward moment. Boulanger had been challenged to submit his "ism" to the judgment of Parisians: he said he would do so whenever a vacancy occurred. That is now. Greek hence goes to meet Greek. The contest could take place at the close of January, but must before the end of March, unless a law be voted suppressing the by-elections. That measure, aimed at Boulanger, would enhance his importance.

Rochefort asserts that his paper, the Intransigeant, has a daily circulation of 180,000, and which represents as many Boulangists. It is not quite logical to conclude that every purchaser of that paper is a Boulangist. M. Floquet reads it daily, and certainly he and the General only meet on duelling ground. There have been 120,000 votes not long ago recorded for M. Hervé, the editor of the royalist journal, Le Soleil, owned by the Orleanist princes; the two totals would make 300,000, or more than half of the list of electors, and the number legally necessary to be recorded to ensure a candidate's victory at the first ballotage. The political temperament of Paris is difficult to gauge at present, opinions ars so dissentient. As a rule Parisians like first to vote in whatever way they can vex the authorities. The total of the voting roll is 568,000; not more than 270,000 come to the urns. If the abstentionists still abstain the result cannot be forecast. Boulanger has generally good luck on his side, and so far the chapter of accidents has been in his favor. The only prediction to hazard is that the canvassing period will be fierce and hot.

Respecting foreign questions all is as calm as if ten millions of men were not armed to the teeth and ready to spring at each other's throats. The budget has been it may be said, wormed through the legislature, and none threw an old slipper after it. The "army organization bill" as amended by the Senate, excluding theological students from service, will not be accepted by the Chamber. This battledore and shuttlecock play will continue till the reforms or general elections, or both, be disposed of.

The Exhibition is marching in Seven League Boots to completion, and exhibitors are moving in. The lilliputian railway around the site, a beneficial leg-saver, has been inaugurated. It alone is one of the sights and novelties. A disreputable attempt was made by some workmen to coerce M. Eiffel into granting an augmentation of wages, or the Excelsior-march of the tower would be stopped. He replied by summarily dismissing the malcontents, and now all goes well.

Christmas was green and gloomy, but it not the less, every depression allowed for, passed off gaily. The Shanty Fair, for toys and multums in parvo, held on the three-mile boulevard, and other thoroughfares is brisk, and children freely lay in stocks, making parents their cashiers.

M. Clemenceau, it may be observed, is not much to the fore at present. He is graduating for the presidency of the Chamber; election, the 10th January.

THE PENITENCIARY

Buenos Aires February 1st 1889

To the Editor of the Standard

Dear Sir,—A short while since, I read a complaint against the management of the Penitentiary here, but cannot remember in which paper it was inserted.

As I take considerable interest in the systems employed in Public Institutions in England which I have always considered perfect, yesterday, accompanied by a friend who speaks Spanish, to interpret (I only recently arrived from England) I journeyed out to Palermo, prepared, I must admit, to find fault generally.

Now I cannot profess to know anything of past management and can, therefore, only judge by what I actually saw.

Upon presenting our cards to the Director, a man of refined tastes, who seems to have his heart in his work, and appears always anxious to introduce improvements, he most courteously conducted us over the entire building, affording statistics and fully explaining everything, with the result that in spite of prejudice, I am bound to admit that I have seldom, if ever, found a Prison better managed; in fact, when certain additions are completed, I fail to see room for improvement at all: Such cleanliness in cells, corridors etc., perfect respect and discipline among the prisoners, excellent sanitary arrangements, good shower baths, plenty of bedding, lighting etc., while the bread and meat is not to be equalled outside the City. The industrial braches appeared complete, while the general appearance of the prisoners denoted wholesome diet, contentment and industry. The only fault, if any, is too much good treatment. I could see that the Director is an old soldier accustomed to command and be obeyed, and the prisoners seem to know it, yet in spite of rigid discipline he appears respected throughout the Establishment.

Judging from appearances, therefore, I should say worse things can happen to a man than a temporary residence in this institution!

Enclosing my card.

I beg to remain,
Yours faithfully,
"Inglés"

MR. PIROVANO'S REPORT. INSPECTOR PINTO'S REPORT.—THE CHUMBICHA AND CATAMARCA RAILWAY. — TRAFFIC RETURNS OF THE ENSENADA RAILWAY.

Mr. Pirovano, chief of the Engineers' Department, has forwarded to the Home-Office his general railway report for the week ending January 29. He begins his report with a complaint of the very irregular service of the Argentine Great Western and Pacific Lines. During the week three trains went off the track. No loss of life, however, occurred. Mr. Pirovano's report is unusually short. No doubt, he is not desirous of taking the railways to task at present, as in a great measure the Co.'s are to be excused, owing to the very heavy rains which fell all last month.

Inspector Pinto's last report to the National Railway Board is dated Mercedes, Feb. 1. The service on the Pacific, he states, is very irregular, still on account of the bad state of the road-bed. All the trains arrive three and more hours behind time and the public is at its wits' end. Some improvement, however, is to be observed in the combination-train service. Several carriages are badly lighted and are not remarkable for cleanliness. In others a very disagreeable smell prevails, sickening the passengers. The attention of the manager has been called to this question. The manager has even gone so far as to name an inspector to look after the carriages and to suggest any improvement.

Mr. Pinto states that he has made several suggestions to the manager, but he does not wish for the moment to say anything about them until they have been accepted.

In the course of the month of January, the following work was done on the Chumbicha and Catamarca Railway. The drains from kil. 9 to 19 have been finished. The stations at Copayan, Villa Prima, and Miraflores have been almost completed. Two hundred men were working near Catamarca Station. With regard to bridges and culverts very little was done, owing to the paucity of material. This is an old complaint. Rails have been laid to kil. 43. Eleven kils. were laid in the month of January: 142 men were ballasting the line.

In other words very little was done in January.

Inspector Ziese's report on the Central Entre-Riano Railway contains nothing new. He complains of the break-neck speed of the trains, which is dangerous at present owing to the bad state of the line. We have not yet seen Mr. Ziese's report on the East Argentine. This reminds us that a storm is again brewing against the East Argentine, and the manager may prepare for the onslaught of a learned and travelled passenger, whose impressions by the way we alluded to in a recent issue.

Yesterday De Arauz wrote to the Chairman of the Catalinas Wharf and Deposit Company, calling his attention to Mr. A. C. Browne's suggestion in regard to the opening of drains along the Northern line between Central and Retiro. The Catalina's Company's works prevent the waters of the drains from running off, and the consequence is the line is flooded after every shower. The National Railway Board have taken up the question, and hence the note to the Company.

The traffic returns of the Boca and Ensenada Line amounted in December last to $112,718.

A decree has been issued approving the contract of Messrs Portalis, Dupont and Co. for the building and working of a railway from Mercedes in San Luis to Rioja. This concession enjoys a 5 per cent. guarantee on a maximum kilometric cost of $22,500 gold.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The "imponderable" Board of Health held a secret sitting yesterday, and, as a matter of course, a kind of world-to-come feeling began to creep up and down the backs of those who heard of it. Secret sittings of Congress, of Corporations and Health Boards are all rank nonsense, except of the former during a foreign war. What's the secret? Out with it, whatever it is. The appearance of yellow fever in Matto Grosso is confirmed; it is also getting worse in Rio.

The President of the Board of Health in view of the alarming advices from Matto Grosso, telegraphed yesterday to the National medical officer in Corrientes, Dr. Diaz de Vivar, to start a special sanitary service for all vessels proceeding from Asuncion and Matto Grosso.

In our article on Retrenchment yesterday a printer's error made us say that Argentines spent a "million" dollars a year; it should have been a "milliard."

Captain General Santos is expected here to-day or to-morrow in the Matteo Bruzzo.

Nemesis overtook the Ligurian boatmen at the passenger mole yesterday. Captain de la Serna pounced on over thirty of them for overcharging passengers by the steamers, locked them up and fined them heavily. These rascals have enjoyed impunity so long that it is high time to haul them over the coals. The same should be done with the "changadores."

The three hours rain on Monday afternoon appears to have done more damage than all that has fallen this summer. Yesterday people were condoling with each other on the destruction of their furniture and carp

Many of our subscribers, especially new visitors from England, may wish to know how a first class River Plate mosquito operates on them: He first plunges a lancet into them: then saws open the wound; then pumps out as much blood as he cares for, squirts poison on the wound, and is off to "fresh fields and pastures new." The lancing, sawing and pumping are not felt by the patient; only when the poison is used is the sting experienced, and then it is too late for vengeance. But very few indeed are smart enough to secure vengeance on the murderous little villain.

When should a doctor call a spade a spade?—When he is talking to a rake.

It is said of a fashionable young man that he never paid anything but a compliment.

The following bull was made by a friend of Samuel Rogers—"No children is an hereditary defect in some families".

Here's an exceedingly solemn truth:—"When marriage is a failure, there is a good deal more wrong with the man, or the woman, or both, than with marriage."

The townspeople of Lujan presented on Sunday last to their esteemed Mayor, Mr. John Malcom, a solid gold plaque as a mark of their appreciation of his great services to the town.

More bogus building. A nearly finished new house in Rosario came down by the run there last week and buried several workmen in the ruins. Two girders giving way caused the crash. It is not stated whether they were of iron or wood, most probably the former, the use of which is strictly forbidden in private houses in Europe.

Todo el perimetro destinado á la colonia, está alambrado, No existe dentro de el hacienda alguna.

Todos los agricultores conocen las ventajas y concessiones que tienen segun la ley de centros agricolas con arreglo á la cual se venderan estas chacras.

Las tierras reconocen una hipoteca de $50 m/n por hectarea pagaderas en 25 años, que pasara al comprador, haciendose cargo de dichas cédulas al precio de bolsa el dia antes del remate.

Business was a trifle duller at the ring to-day, and it seemed as if gold were settling down for the moment to gyrate round a 55 o/o premium. To shew the rapidity with which matters change, however, it is only necessary to compare opinion of to-day and anticipations of a week ago. At that time the premium was almost universally condemned as exaggerated at a figure under 54 o/o, and everybody seemed to expect a decline; to-day 65 o/o is expected, 100 o/o freely talked of as possible, and 55 o/o not considered high. Such is the varying phase of speculative affairs. What the further course of events may bring forth is a matter of surmise, but there can be no doubt that the current is at present setting upwards. Every indication tends towards advance, and it might well happen that 60 o/o may be reached before the indicator begins to mark retrogression. For all this, a turn in the tide may come at any moment to shew the fallacy of taking it for granted that a premium under 50 o/o is an impossibility. As for stocks, they were mostly weak, with exception of the sovereign stock, which closed up to 264.50 and left off firm, due, it is said, to favourable news about the extraordinary dividend, which is said to be larger than was expected. There is a good demand for "Obligaciones," which are quoted at 17 and 18 for large lots, and at 20 for small lots, say of 50 and under.

The very many friends of Mr. Michael Carroll, so favorably known in local business circles, will be delighted to hear that he intends soon returning to the Plate. He gives up the agency of the National Bank of Uruguay in London, and is spoken of as one of the candidates for the post of manager of that Bank in Montevideo. Mr. Domingo Ayarragary, the present manager, leaves soon for Europe, and being a Director on the Board, according to the new charter, he can no longer fill the post of manager. There are several candidates mentioned to succeed him.

A meeting was held yesterday by several of the most influential residents of Lomas de Zamora for the purpose of forming a Sociedad Constructora, which was immediately agreed upon and the basis drawn up. Amongst those present were Mr. J. Peralta Martinez, the promoter, Messrs. J. M. Martinez, P. J. Coni, J. M. Bell, M. Marenco, F. Rodriguez, Dr. Areco, and F. R. Rojas. The first series of shares will comprise some 2000 of 100 dollars, and we understand that the issue has been already nearly half covered. This departure will no doubt push this thriving suburb ahead, and has a most promising augury in the career of the Flores Constructora, whose shares are now quoted at a heavy premium. As for the value of lands in this quarter, the following may be taken as a sample:—15x34 yards for 1,900 dols., buyer Mr. G. Falcon; 40x50 yards for 2,000 dols., buyer Mr. A. Carvagal; 20x54 metres for 1,020, buyer Mr. Philpots.

The wool markets are reported very flat, due to the unfavourable advices from Europe, and even the boom in the premium seems unable to put any animation into the market. It is said that the export is still 20,000 bales short as compared with last season.

Advices received from Montevideo shew that Obras Shares have fallen to 36¼ which, is bad look-out indeed for the shareholders, and indicates panic. Even the National Bank Stock closed down to 144.

Advices from Rosario announce a heavy speculation in gold, 1,381,000 dollars being disposed of yesterday. The continuous rains are interrupting all farm work, and keep the farmers in bad humour.

The offices of the Poblatora General were crowed yesterday by enthusiastic subscribers, in whose glowing countenances could be read the magic words so dear to every investor's heart——gigantic dividend; for it was open secret for months back, that owing to the immense gains effected on the purchase and resale of building lots along the Riachuelo a handsome business would be declared. The report read by the Secretary was at once simple and minute. The new town alongside of the killing ground, is already fairly started by good "bona fide" settlers, and in a couple of weeks the canalization of the river will be begun by Messrs. Huergo and Co. At the Noria bridge, close to the town, a large port for coasting traffic is about to be built, where all the up river traffic as performed in small schooners or steamers will find a sure haven, quick despatch and ready sale for goods and produce of every class and description.

A dividend of 30 dollars or say 66 o/o as proposed by the directory was voted "nem. con." after which the meeting dissolved well pleased with the present, past and future of this most useful company.

Government has approved the statutes of the Insurance Company España, capital $200,000, and those of the La Galvanizadora, capital $300,000.

The Governor of Santa Cruz writes to the Home Minister for a steamer for that Gobernacion. They want one badly.

Mr. Maschwitz, manager of the Deutsche Uebersee Bank, applied yesterday to the Minister of Finance to be exempted from the banking tax, as the bank under the provisions of the Free Banking Law is now on the same footing as the State banks.

The Minister of Hacienda issued a decree to-day ordering the opening of a street, 50 metres wide, from the Western side of the South Basin of the Buenos Aires port, and between the Boca and Calle Brasil.

The Board of Public Works have decided to call for tenders for the erection of a building for the Museo de Productos Argentinos. The building must be completed within two years from date of contract.

As the packet cleared to-day there was nothing doing in exchange, though the mails are said to be fairly heavy. The rate is quoted at 47½ to 9d.

Discounts are easy in paper at 8 opo and money is abundant.

Business at the second hour was a trifle dull all round, gold closing up to 155 for to morrow and end month, and 155.50 for end March. In stocks National Bank shares shewed an unexpected buoyancy, closing firm at 265½, and it is said now that there is much demand for this splendid stock which will be duly reflected in quotations. Cedulas were in brisk demand and firm, nearly all the series being dealt in.

The meeting of shareholders of the Banco Constructor de La Plata was held to-day in the National Theatre, Sr. M. Roca presiding. The theatre was well filled, fully 500 shareholders being present. The report, which was handed round, was read. It shews the working of the Company for the year and gives the certificate of Messrs. Bollini, Muro and Co. as to the values of the real estate held by the Company, viz.:—

	Dollars.
In the city of Buenos Aires	4,002,305
In the Boca	1,374,164
In South Barracas	192,736
In La Plata, Tolosa, Puerto and Ensenada	5,161,908
	10,731,107

The Bank owns 236 houses, 53 tenements, and 36 "casillas," yielding a monthly rent last year of 12,677 dols., and which rents have now risen to 17,048 dols. The market at Tres Esquinas is now nearly finished: all the stalls are rented, which give 3,000 mln. per month, and the rents on other properties give 4,060 mln. per month, giving a total rent per month to the bank of 24,048 dols., or say 288,000 dols. The net profits of the bank for the year amount to 5,776,097, and deducting what the charter gives the directors, founder, etc., there is a balance of 4,901,178 for the shareholders. The Directors propose a dividend for the half year 26 03/00 for shareholders who converted their stock into Obligations, and 15 o/o to the other shareholders, which added to the 6 per cent. provisional dividend given in the first half year, amounts to 32.03 o/o to shareholders converting and 21 o/o to shareholders non-converting. The proposed distribution of the dividend gave rise to some discussion, Dr. Costa in a very able speech opposed the measure. Mr F. Livingston supported his views. Dr. J. M. del Campo replied, explaining the action of the board, but suggesting a more equal distribution of the money. Several other shareholders spoke to the question; finally it was put to the vote, and the report and dividend as proposed by the Directors was carried by a sweeping majority. The election of new members for the board of Directors was next proceeded with, but as there was only one list the green one, it was voted nem con. The meeting then separated.

On Monday evening a special Mountaineering party left in all the rain for Curumalan. The party was composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs Casey, Sandford, Bouwer, Todd, Oostendorp and Mulhall.

The lucky purchasers of the lands occupied by the "Sferistero Argentino" on Santa Fé road have received an offer of $30,000 to pass the boleto and have refused; the lands altogether only cost them $145,000, and that barely a week ago.

The sale is reported of 3 square leagues of camp in Entre Rios, alongside the Sta. Elena saladero, with a frontage on the Parana, which have been disposed of for 180,000 dollars; seller Mr. Giebert, and buyer Dr. Tezanos Pinto.
